

Declaration of RoHS Conformity

With reference to the Directive 2011/65/EU on the restriction of use of certain hazardous substances in electrical equipment (RoHS), recast of the previous 2002/95/EC Directive, the Company Troemner, LLC, based in 201 Wolf Drive, Thorofare, NJ, USA, declares that all masses and 230V Laboratory Products satisfy the requirements of the RoHS Directive beginning July 22, 2014.

Based on what above stated, Troemner, LLC actively maintains the necessary action to ensure Supply chain's continuity. In particular: the update of the needed information concerning the evolution of the RoHS Directive, the search for alternative Suppliers in order to ensure the continuity of supply, research and development of alternative substances and processed to ensure Customer continuity, quality and performance of its products.

Restricted substances referred to in Directive's Article 4(1) and Maximum Concentration Values tolerated by weight in homogeneous materials
Lead	0,1% weight on homogeneous material*
Mercury	0,1% weight on homogeneous material*
Cadmium	0,01% weight on homogeneous material*
Hexavalent chromium	0,1% weight on homogeneous material*
Polybrominated biphenyls(PBB)	0,1% weight on homogeneous material*
Polybrominated diphenyl ethers (PBDE)	0,1% weight on homogeneous material* *from 2011/65/EU Directive: homogeneous material mean one material of uniform composition throughout or a material, consisting of a combination of materials, that cannot be disjoined or separated into different materials by mechanical action such as unscrewing, cutting, crushing, grinding and abrasive processes;